Background/Rationale: According to the National Association of Anorexia Nervosa and Associated Disorders, over twenty million girls and women and ten million boys and men across the country suffer from clinically significant eating disorders at some point in their lives. Eating disorders affect persons of every race, color, gender, and socioeconomic category and are increasing among people in younger age groups. At this time, eating disorders have the highest mortality rate of any mental illness. Effective prevention of eating disorders is needed. Prevention focuses on learning how to live healthy lifestyles, challenging society's misleading messages about beauty, developing realistic expectations of self and body image, and accepting one's physical characteristics.

Financial Considerations: None
